Welcome to your Local Policing Summary 2010/2011

Peter Williams

Chairman, Surrey Police Authority

Mark Rowley

Chief Constable, Surrey Police

Welcome to Policing Surrey, the annual report that looks back at our performance during the past financial year and outlines our plans for the current one.

We are pleased to say that despite the challenging times affecting everyone in the country, we continue to meet targets in regards to crime reduction and public safety. You can see the full performance chart on page 7 or at www.surreyppa.gov.uk.

We are on course to fulfil our aim to increase police officer numbers by recruiting 200 additional police constables by 2012. The recruitment drive is well underway and with almost 100 officers added in the last year, we are confident we will meet our target.

To achieve this we have reduced the number of senior leaders and are reviewing old and under-used police buildings. Our re-location plans for neighbourhood officers are unfolding throughout the county, with teams sharing offices with council colleagues and moving to new alternative bases in communities. An update on how to access local officers and police services in your borough appears below. Further updates will appear at www.surrey.police.uk/surrey_public_first as the full picture takes shape. Also listed below are ways to access our many services. Rest assured these plans and changes do not affect emergency response teams. They continue to operate as normal and we remain dedicated to maintaining Surrey's reputation as one of the safest counties in the country.

Looking ahead, we are preparing to play our part in the policing of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games. The Olympic Cycling Road Race will pass through five of Surrey's boroughs, the Olympic Cycling Time Trial will pass through Elmbridge, and Egham will play host to the world's finest rowing and canoeing teams for the duration of their competition.

We are working alongside Surrey County Council and the London Organising Committee of the Olympic and Paralympic Games (LOCOG) to ensure things run smoothly, safely and enjoyably.

How you can get in touch...

There are many different ways to contact Surrey Police and access local officers and police services in your borough.

To contact Surrey Police:

- Call: In an emergency always dial 999. For all other policing matters call 101 or 01483 571212 (24-hour service)
- Email: customerservice@surrey.pnn.police.uk
- Write: Surrey Police, PO Box 101, Guildford, GU1 9PE
- Visit: Woking Police Station, Station Approach, GU22 7SY. Opening times: 8am – 10pm daily. There are plans to open an extra police front counter at Woking Borough Council later this year, where the borough's Safer Neighbourhood Teams have been co-located since 2009.

For regular news updates and information:

- Visit: www.surrey.police.uk
- You can also follow Surrey Police on Twitter: @surreypolice or (coming soon) via Facebook: www.facebook.com/SurreyPolice
- For regular updates for your area visit your Safer Neighbourhood Team's page at: www.surrey.police.uk/woking or follow us on Facebook: www.facebook.com/WokingPolice

To contact your Safer Neighbourhood Team:

- Email: woking@surrey.pnn.police.uk
- Call: 101 or 01483 571212
- Officers hold regular panel meetings and surgeries in your area. These offer you the opportunity to help set local policing priorities defined by the issues you want us to focus on. For details of future meetings visit: www.surrey.police.uk/woking or contact your team.

You said... We did

Many of the 100 extra officers already recruited by Surrey Police have joined our Safer Neighbourhood Policing Teams, working with the public to address policing issues and concerns in their area. The teams, supported by staff and officers from across the Force, listen to concerns, act and report back on progress made. Here are some examples from Woking borough of how we've worked with communities and partner agencies over the last year to make our neighbourhoods safer. Find out more about the work of your Safer Neighbourhood Team on its dedicated webpage at www.surrey.police.uk/woking

Neighbourhood Inspector John Davies

BYFLEET

When Byfleet residents complained about anti-social driving in Parvis Road in January, we held a Day of Action to target the problem. As a result, five errant drivers found themselves taking part in a Drive SMART initiative in which they were shown shocking images of real collisions caused either by speeding or driving while using a mobile phone. Other images showed the potential consequences of not wearing a seatbelt while driving. The aim is to prompt drivers into re-thinking their attitudes towards such dangerous practices. The Day of Action also saw one vehicle seized.

GOLDSWORTH PARK/HORSELL

The Goldsworth Park and Horsell Safer Neighbourhood Teams joined forces to tackle an increase in late night anti-social behaviour in Horsell High Street where some £10,000 worth of criminal damage had occurred at weekends. In conjunction with partner agencies, the two policing teams quickly identified the likely culprits, issued them with warning letters and obtained an Anti-Social Behaviour Order (ASBO) against one particular 20-year-old offender.

MAYBURY

When Maybury residents raised concerns about drug dealing and drugs misuse around Boundary Road and Walton Road, the Safer Neighbourhood Team made the issue a top priority. This resulted in day and night patrols, partnership working with the Force's Automatic Number Plate Recognition (ANPR) and CCTV units and the 'stop searching' of numerous individuals and vehicles. The passenger in one stopped vehicle ran off with a large plastic bag. He threw it over a nearby fence. On recovering the bag officers found it contained a substantial amount of herbal cannabis. In turn, the passenger and driver of the vehicle found themselves under arrest on suspicion of possession of cannabis with intent to supply.

MOUNT HERMON

Following residents' reports of a constant stream of visitors and months of unusual behaviour at a bed-sit in Mount Hermon, 20 officers carried out a drugs warrant at the address in February. This revealed several bags of cannabis and other drugs paraphernalia. As a result, two men found themselves under arrest for possessing cannabis with intent to supply. The Proceeds of Crime Act (POCA) also enabled Surrey Police to seize £1,000 in cash along with bank statements to help ascertain how much profit these individuals had made through illegal activities. This excellent result restored peace and quiet to a small residential close and the local Safer Neighbourhood Team expressed its thanks to all who had contributed to its success.

OLD WOKING

At the turn of the year, Ash Road residents in Barnsbury expressed concerns about an increase in anti-social behaviour and large gatherings of youths taking place outside local shops and around the green. Reports included incidences of rowdy nuisance behaviour, excessive noise, underage drinking and the aggressive targeting of certain homes. Old Woking's Safer Neighbourhood Team responded by making this a neighbourhood priority issue and bringing in extra neighbourhood and response unit patrols to deal positively and robustly with a number of identified troublemakers.

Driving home the safety message with our Drive SMART campaign

The partnership Drive SMART campaign to tackle anti-social driving and increase road safety contributed to 80 fewer people being killed or seriously injured on Surrey's roads in its first year.

Surrey Police and Surrey County Council originally launched Drive SMART in September 2009 as a year-long campaign but it has been extended for a further year after figures for 2009-2010 confirmed the initiative helped save lives on the county's roads.

Nine fewer children were killed or seriously injured and there were 86 fewer crashes on Surrey's roads during the year, compared to 2008-2009.

The campaign seeks to educate motorists – and where necessary carry out enforcement – around a range of anti-social driving and road safety issues including speeding, using a mobile phone while driving, drink and drug driving and motorcycle safety.

For more information on the initiative and its results visit www.drivesmartsurrey.org.uk

Hitting hard at crime gangs

Disrupting criminal gangs and keeping serious crime in Surrey low are top concerns for Surrey residents and top priorities for the Force.

This year, teams across the county including our Serious Crime Investigation Team and Cross Border Investigation Team have worked hard to solve dozens of crimes and ensure the Force's target to dismantle 15 organised criminal gangs was achieved.

• A gang, including a 57-year-old man from Woking, which had been producing cannabis on an industrial scale was sentenced to a total of just over 15 years in prison in September. Surrey Police officers gathered intelligence to trace the gang's production to a large warehouse in Cambridgeshire.

• Surrey Police has also been hitting criminals where it hurts – in their pockets. A convicted burglary gang boss had £100,000 worth of assets recovered after investigators proved it was from the proceeds of his crime. The 37-year-old man directed a gang whose members would break into homes at night and steal key fobs for cars parked in victims' driveways.

TO KEEP SURREY SAFE

WORKING TOGETHER

Tackling anti-social behaviour

Reducing anti-social behaviour is a priority for Surrey Police and the Force works with a range of partner agencies to address the issue. Initiatives over the last year have included:

- Extra patrols in busy town centres over the Christmas and New Year periods to deal with drunken and rowdy behaviour and reduce violence and public disorder. A series of hard-hitting posters reminded revellers to remember their night for the right reasons and enjoy themselves responsibly. Businesses were also asked to support the campaign by not serving alcohol to under-18s or those already drunk.
- Surrey Police's Pumpkin Patrols took to the streets over Halloween and Bonfire Night to ensure people had a safe and enjoyable time and to warn potential troublemakers they faced on the spot fines, arrest and the confiscation of fireworks. Officers visited locations across the county in the eye-catching Halloween-themed patrol car to speak with youngsters and parents. Working with Trading Standards, 28 shops across the county were visited to test whether underage children were being sold fireworks. None of the retailers visited sold age-restricted goods without checking proper identification.

Terrorism: don't take any chances

No call is a waste of time – if you suspect it, report it – that is the key message to help everyone prevent terrorism.

While Surrey is recognised as being a comparatively safe place and there is no specific threat to the county, the UK faces a significant threat and our close proximity to London and transport centres means there is a real possibility that premises in Surrey could be used by terrorists planning and preparing an attack.

Surrey's communities are best placed to notice behaviour which is out of place in normal day-today living and could be the tell-tale signs of terrorist activity. This could include anyone who for no obvious reason:

- Buys or stores large amounts of chemicals, fertilisers or gas cylinders
- Behaves differently or suspiciously
- Has a large number of mobile phones for no obvious reason
- Has passports or other documents in different names
- Travels for long periods of time but is vague about where they're going
- Takes an interest in security measures like CCTV

If you are suspicious about possible terrorist activity don't rely on others, call the confidential Anti-Terrorist Hotline on 0800 789 321 immediately. Surrey Police continues to work with businesses, communities and neighbouring forces to reduce the chance of a terrorist attack. For more information visit www.surrey.police.uk

Help us to beat the burglar

Burglaries in areas of Surrey dropped dramatically following the use of forensic property marking kits by Surrey householders as part of the Force's Beat the Burglar campaign.

In some areas burglaries from homes fell by an average of 66% in the six months following the launch of the property marking initiative, with incidents down 58% when compared with the same time period the previous year.

Surrey Police teamed up with SelectaDNA for the campaign, a company which offers uniquely coded, non-toxic liquid allowing homeowners to 'forensically mark' valuable possessions including laptops, games consoles, jewellery and tools.

Barely visible to the naked eye and almost impossible to remove, the solution glows under ultraviolet (UV) light making it easy for police to detect and return property to the rightful owner if stolen.

Launched in Spring last year, the campaign offered residents discounted property marking kits along with general home safety and crime reduction advice.

The initiative also aimed to raise awareness among offenders of the risks associated with stealing forensically marked property. It highlighted how all frontline Surrey Police officers now carry UV torches and are actively looking for stolen forensically marked property.

HOW WE WORK FOR YOU...

From our current £213.2m annual budget, £192.7m is spent on our officers and staff.

The teams most visible to communities are the Safer Neighbourhood Teams, but they are supported by hundreds of other officers and staff who all have an important part to play in keeping you and your area safe.

Here is a breakdown of how our staff are employed across the Force.

Investigation (30%): Teams responsible for investigating and detecting crime and prosecuting offenders. This includes CID, teams dealing with major crimes such as rape and murder, fraud, cross border crime, organised groups and drug dealers. This also includes officers and staff liaising with the Crown Prosecution Service, working in forensics and the Force's custody centres, and the teams dealing with the most dangerous and predatory offenders and protecting the most vulnerable victims.

Neighbourhoods (15%): Officers and staff responsible for neighbourhood policing, working with communities and partner organisations to tackle neighbourhood issues. This includes Safer Neighbourhood Teams, special constables and specialists focusing on casualty and crime reduction, licensing and young people. This also includes teams dealing with prolific and priority offenders, anti-social behaviour and drug and alcohol issues.

Response (29%): Officers and staff involved in responding to emergency calls 24-hours a day. This includes targeted response teams, roads policing, firearms, helicopter, search, police dogs, specialist operations and conflict management, the Force Control Room and call centre and front counter staff.

Tasking and Co-ordination (10%): Officers and staff involved in handling and analysing intelligence, Special Branch and counter terrorism operations, surveillance, planning for operations and emergencies and customer service.

Support Services (16%): Support staff including human resources, finance, information technology and strategic support and governance.

Having YOUR SAY

Surrey Police Authority is the independent body responsible for ensuring that Surrey has an efficient and effective police force that works in the best interests of local people.

The Authority has 17 members; nine County Councillors and eight Independent Members recruited from the general public. They are supported by a small team of staff based in Guildford.

The Authority's responsibilities are:

- Consulting with local residents about their priorities for policing
- Setting the Force's direction and appointing Chief Officers
- Scrutinising the Force's performance
- Setting the budget and getting value for money

Over the next year, there may be changes in the way the Chief Constable is held to account and updates will be included on our website: www.surreypa.gov.uk.

For regular updates you can also follow us on Twitter @surreypa

What Surrey Police achieved across the whole force area last year...

8	Make efficiency savings of £6.2m	£6.2m	✓
9	Keep unplanned turnover of police officers and staff at or below 8%	4.3%	✓

... And what Surrey Police aims to achieve in 2011/12

- Ensure that at least 80% of the public in Surrey have confidence in the police in their neighbourhood
- Ensure that at least 76% of victims of anti-social behaviour are satisfied with the overall service provided by Surrey Police
- Ensure that at least 79% of victims of serious incidents are satisfied with the overall service provided by the police
- Keep serious acquisitive crime (burglary, theft of and from motor vehicles, robbery/mugging) and serious violent crimes low – at or below 13.6 incidents per 1,000 population
- Dismantle or disrupt 15 organised criminal groups
- Charge or caution 450 people for supplying Class A and Class B drugs
- Resolve 18.6% of serious acquisitive crime, serious violent crime and rape and sexual abuse with a sanction detection* or other police resolution
- Save money in other areas to pay for more police constables – reaching 1,545 constables (from the 2010 baseline of 1,345)
- Make the most of our resources by ensuring that at least 90% of our officers and staff are available to deliver and support policing in Surrey

* Sanction detection can include a charge or summons, caution or when someone admits to other offences and asks for these to be 'taken into consideration'.

DO SOMETHING SPECIAL

If you are over 18, fit, of good character and interested in part-time policing – why not apply to the Surrey Special Constabulary?

Special Constables are given a thorough grounding in police work, hold the same powers as their regular colleagues and wear the same uniform.

Forming a vital link between the regular police and the community, Specials perform numerous important policing tasks. You may find yourself working alongside Safer Neighbourhood Teams, conducting patrols to tackle anti-social behaviour, working within the response policing teams or assisting with investigations. You could provide security at major events, present evidence in court or assist at scenes of accidents, fights or fires.

Special Tracy Doughty says:

"I volunteer between 20-25 hours a month as a Special Constable and I never know what each new shift will bring. Since joining in 2008 I've been involved in many aspects of the job and have had an excellent insight into the world of policing.

"I've recently become a Special Sergeant and hope eventually to fulfil my ambition to be a full time Surrey Police officer. I'm so glad I volunteered. It's a truly exciting challenge and completely different from anything else I've done. I'd recommend it to anyone."

If you're ready to take the Special challenge and can spare a minimum of four hours a week, please call 0800 328 7597 or email specialconstabulary@surrey.pnn.police.uk, or download an application form at www.surrey.police.uk/careers/careers_special.asp
